The Good Friday Farm is comprised of a farmhouse, barn, silos, stables, sheds and garages. The Colonial-Revival gabled-ell house is balloon-framed 3 bays by 2 bays and 2 1/2 stories. The asphalt shingle roof is moderately pitched with a gable end interior ridge chimney and exposed brackets along the cornice. A 2 story porch covers the side entrance while a 1 story ornate porch is over the front entrance. A one story lean-to addition is on the back elevation. The siding is aluminum. While the form and fenestration placement remains original, the siding is aluminum and the windows have been replaced with 2/2 lites. The English three-bay bank barn predates the adjacent Wisconsin barn. The English barn has a random fieldstone foundation, vertical board siding and a moderately pitched gable roof. The threshing bay door on the bank side and the doors on the slope side create symmetrical elevations with louvered windows on either side of the doors. Two abandoned concrete silos are between the two barns. The Wisconsin barn has a gambrel roof with a hanging gable hay hood, shiplap siding, rows of 1/1 light windows (6 light windows on the gable walls) hay loft doors and gable wall doors. The barn now functions as stables. An equipment storage and garage is adjacent to the Wisconsin barn and is comprised of a number of additions. It has a gable roof for the garage and a shed roof for the addition. An open bay stable (gable roof, 2x4 bays, vertical board siding) is near the cluster of outbuildings. A and iA recent concrete block shed with a corrugated metal gable roof is adjacent to the Wisconsin barn while a recessed joint concrete block (circa 1950s) shed with quoining, a hipped gable roof and 2/2 windows is also adjacent to the barns. A 2x1 bay wooden storage shed is also near the house.

Continuation Sheet No. 2

The farmstead also includes the property at 4934 Ijamsville Rd (MIHP F-5-162) and historically included 4909 Ijamsville Rd (MIHP F-5-161). The farm is representative of the peak growth period of Ijamsville (1890-1910), particularly along Mussetter and Ijamsville Rd. While Ijams Mill and the B&O railroad (and the slate quarries) formed the catalyst for the founding of Ijamsville by Plummer Ijams, the farmsteads in the region also prospered and contributed to the areas growth with quick access to the mill and markets. The original tracts along Ijamsville Road (from Route 144 to the B&O RR) were primarily farmsteads and the namesake for 4830 Ijamsville is derived from the original 'Good Friday tract', part of the the much larger landholdings of the local Duvall family.

The F-5-160 structural complex is at the center of a c. 200-acre farm that was initially consolidated by the Duvall family in the late eighteenth and the early nineteenth centuries. In 1884 the c. 140-acre core of this farm was sold to Ellen Jane Dertzbaugh (FCLR AF9/243). At sometime between 1894 and 1918 Ellen Jane Dertzbaugh died without a will and the land passed to her only heir-at-law, Clara J. Smith (FCLR EGH324/445); since then the farm has remained in the ownership of three generations of the Smith family. From 1884 to 1946 the farm's acreage fluctuated due to numerous sales and purchases of peripheral tracts, but the farm has remained stable at c. 200 acres since 1946 (FCLR ECW823/126, ECW891/455, SKD4636/631, and SKD4645/563).

While the house has been significantly altered, along with many of the outbuildings, the two barns retain their defining features and materials. It is the opinion of the preparer that on account of the Wisconsin and English barns the property is eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A and C. No significant people are known to be associated with the property and it is the opinion of the preparer that the property does not meet Criterion B of the NRHP. The property has not been evaluated under Criterion D.

Capsule Summary

The Good Friday Farm (primary property)/ Smith Farmstead is comprised of a farmhouse, barn, silos, stables, sheds and garages. The Colonial-Revival gabled-ell house is balloon-framed 3 bays by 2 bays and 2 ½ stories. The English three-bay bank barn predates the adjacent Wisconsin barn. Three other outbuildings complete the complex.

The farm is representative of the peak growth period of Ijamsville (1890-1910), particularly along Mussetter and Ijamsville Rd. The F-5-160 structural complex is at the center of a c. 200-acre farm that was initially consolidated by the Duvall family in the late eighteenth and the early nineteenth centuries. In 1884 the c. 140-acre core of this farm was sold to Ellen Jane Dertzbaugh. Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Good Friday Farm is comprised of a farmhouse, barn, silos, stables, sheds and garages. The Colonial-Revival gabled-ell house is balloon-framed 3 bays by 2 bays and 2 ½ stories. The asphalt shingle roof is moderately pitched with a gable end interior ridge chimney and exposed brackets along the cornice. A 2 story porch covers the side entrance while a 1 story ornate porch is over the front entrance. A one story lean-to addition is on the back elevation. While the form and fenestration placement remains original, the siding is aluminum and the windows have been replaced with 2/2 lites.

The English three-bay bank barn predates the adjacent Wisconsin barn. The English barn has a random fieldstone foundation, vertical board siding and a moderately pitched gable roof. The threshing bay door on the bank side and the doors on the slope side create symmetrical elevations with louvered windows on either side of the doors. Two abandoned concrete silos are between the two barns.

The Wisconsin barn has a gambrel roof with a hanging gable hay hood, shiplap siding, rows of 1/1 light windows (6 light windows on the gable walls) hay loft doors and gable wall doors. The barn now functions as stables.

An equipment storage and garage is adjacent to the Wisconsin barn and is comprised of a number of additions. It has a gable roof for the garage and a shed roof for the addition. An open bay stable (gable roof, 2x4 bays, vertical board siding) is near the cluster of outbuildings. A 2x1 bay wooden storage shed is also near the house.

The farmstead also includes the property at 4934 Ijamsville Rd (MIHP F-5-162) and historically included 4909 Ijamsville Rd (MIHP F-5-161). The farm is representative of the peak growth period of Ijamsville (1890-1910), particularly along Mussetter and Ijamsville Rd. Verbal boundary description and justification

The SDAT online database lists both F-5-160 (4830 Ijamsville Road) and F-5-162 (4934 Ijamsville Road) as within Parcel 21 on Tax Map 87, with the same deed reference (SKD4645/563). Each address has a separate tax id number and F-5-160 (4830 Ijamsville Road) is listed as encompassing 140 acres while F-5-162 (4934 Ijamsville Road) is listed as encompassing 78.57 acres. Unfortunately, Tax Map 87 does not show boundaries for this internal division of Parcel 21. The current deed (SKD4645/563) lists five parcels, with Parcel 1 totaling 140 acres and Parcels 2 through 5 totaling 78.57 acres. Complicating the effort to define the boundaries of F-5-160 and F-5-162, the current deed refers back to earlier deeds for metes-and-bounds of these five parcels. A solution was reached by mapping the metes-and-bounds in an 1884 deed for Parcel 1 (AF9/243) and two early deeds for Parcel 2 (1918 deed EGH326/93 and 1905 deed STH269/568), which revealed that F-5-160 is situated within Parcel 1, F-5-162 is situated within Parcel 2, and that Parcels 3, 4, and 5 are located along the south and west periphery of the farm where there are no standing structures. The boundaries of F-5-160 have thus been defined as all of Tax Map 87 Parcel 21, excepting the 11 acres described in the current deed as Parcel 2, while the boundaries of F-5-162 have been defined as the 11 acres described in the current deed as Parcel 2.
